Fortune Teller template - Cut out and fold

(Results include Ads Sellers looking to grow their business and reach more interested buyers can use Etsy's advertising platform to promote their items. You'll see ad results based on factors like relevancy, the amount sellers pay per click, Learn more.) Here's an awesome idea for menus...Cootie Catchers! They also look darling on the tables as part of a table setting decor. Download the fortune teller (or cootie catcher) template by clicking here. Use nice script fonts, monograms or dingbats to decorate the outer flaps of your fortune teller menu. I created this cootie catcher template with no lines in Power Point, so you can get a clean look. Download cootie catcher wedding template.ppt or if you're familiar with Photoshop, here's a layered PSD file. Have a good weekend! *photos from Martha Stewart Get notified about exclusive offers every week! Tags Amanda September 19 So it's nearly the weekend (again) and time for the weekly mixed bag of wedding stuff we've found and fallen in love with. As always it's a little bit random, from old-school fortune teller placecards and menus, to the yummy wares of the Cake Cafe and my favourite flowers - Peonies. Do you remember as a kid making these little origami fortune tellers? Sue stumbled upon Kat's Krafts on Etsy, making the cutest versions for the tables at your wedding. These can double as placecards (names on the outside) and menus (written on the inside). Alternatively they could have games in them, or the programme for the ceremony - ideas are limitless. I think this is just such a clever idea - they're inexpensive, pretty and interesting, giving guests something to play with and talk about. You could try making them yourself, but unless you're a photoshop genius I think it could be pretty tricky, so spending $40 with Kat seems like a pretty good deal to me. The Cake Cafe on Pleasants Place in Dublin 2 is one of Dublin's real hidden gems. And when I say hidden, I mean hidden. Tucked in behind Daintree, it nestles in a little courtyard, making it the perfect place to escape from it all with a glass of prosecco and a delicious little cupcake (their suggestion, not mine). And if you're getting married they have a lovely selection of yummy treats you could incorporate into the day - as well as creating bespoke wedding cakes, or wedding cupcake extravaganzas, they can make miniature cakes and cookies to give as wedding favours. These can be personalised according to your taste, wrapped up and be-ribboned (is that a word?). Definitely worth popping in on a research mission! I have loved Peonies since I was a little girl - fascination with all those old oil paintings in my grandmothers house. Peonies are beautiful full-petalled blooms that were sadly long out of fashion, but over the last while have definitely been making a strong comeback. If you're a Gossip Girl, you may recognise these as Blair Waldorf's flower of choice. With their big blowsy heads and beautiful fragrance, they're absolutely perfect for wedding table arrangements and make a lovely addition to a bridal bouquet. Currently Marks and Spencers have a special offer - 25% more peonies for your money. As they are still not common-or-garden (excuse the pun), you may have to hunt, not every florist will have them, but I've seen them on Moore Street and Grafton Street so they shouldn't be too difficult to find. Happy Weekend!! via One Stylish Bride Get nostalgic with these origami paper fortune-teller wedding invitations. We can all remember making these interactive art toys as children or at least playing with them, and we're convinced they'd make super fun wedding invitations, Wedding Save The Date, wedding favours, wedding programs, and wedding menus. Of course, instead of purchasing them, you could always get creative and make them yourself. You can download a fortune-teller template created by Ruffled, by clicking here. Obviously, this is far more time consuming option, but it could be fun and would make it easier to personalize them. Either way, this darling idea is bound to impress your guests and be a hoot. {Images 1-6 via Kat's Krafts; Image 7 via Martha Stewart Weddings} Make Somebody's Day! Send Good Vibes.
