Not all games are created equal and often we see them develop at an incredibly fast pace which makes us believe that this process will be smooth and easy but it doesn't always happen that way: first of all, people often have unrealistic expectations for themselves and secondly they forget to look at what others are doing and how the market reacts to new games.

On December 20, 2016, a 12-year-old girl in Las Vegas named Arielle De La Rosa was banned from Roblox for what she believed was a "harassment campaign". She had created a character named Emily Roe that she used to bully another player online. The bullying campaign went on for over a year until it came to her parents' attention and they contacted Roblox about it. The harassment campaign violated the Child Online Privacy Protection Act (COPPA). Her parents encouraged her to create a character named "Emily Roe" and they hoped that this would help her get unbanned from Roblox.

The company's Terms of Service forbids developers from using Roblox's data for marketing purposes including allowing developers to sell their own products on the platform. It also prohibits them from using Roblox's data for behavioral advertising such as ad marketing based on the age groups or ethnicity of an individual user. The report by CNBC states that this can be seen in their products where they use this data to serve ads on other sites that are owned by the company.

On March 3, 2008, ROBLOX released a new logo for the website after receiving much criticism from its community for changing it in late 2007. The new logo removed black completely from the original logo and changed the font to match that of RISC OS. The new logo was the same as it was before, but added a small "2" at the bottom of the logo.
