We bring to your attention an overview of the available and planned updates for smartphones little, Redmi and Mi del producer. Xiaomi always equips the most expensive devices of the Xiaomi series (previously serious MI) with good technologies. This means that these smartphones usually receive support for updates for two years. But you can also count on at least one Android update for cheaper Redmi models. The manufacturer even promises three large Android updates for Xiaomi 12 and 12 Pro smartphones. It is not yet known if this guarantee will apply to other cell phones. At least, the models of the X and F brand of the brand little usually receive an Android update. Xiaomi smartphones are not supplied with the usual Android, but with their own user interface called Miui. MIUI: A brief overview of the new Xiaomi user interface currently extends to the first devices. The user interface has already been introduced to China in December 2022 and now reaches the first models in the rest of the world. MIUI 14 should bring Android 13 functions and expand functionality. For example, in the future the best data protection should be guaranteed. In addition, now you can exchange photo albums through the cloud, you can copy the text from the images, the effectiveness of the program has increased. Of course, there are many other functions that you can read in our Miui 14 review. You can also expect a new living background and animation, as well as a widget system, such as Apple and Samsung. They say that Miui 13 optimizes the battery, stability and performance. In addition, Xiaomi changes the character of the user interface on Misans. Until now, the Chinese manufacturer needed a little more time before releasing new versions of Android. Last year, the period of time between the announcement of the update and the release of Xiaomi smartphones was significantly reduced. Users in Germany had to wait for Android for 13 months. With Android 12 Xiaomi it was a bit faster. On the other hand, with Android 14, the manufacturer would like to start providing an update a little earlier.
